India is in need of vibrant and functional Human Rights Courts to protect Fundamental Rights. We also requested to our Lawyer friends across the country should assertively demand setting up these courts in their respective States and contribute towards a new system of justice.

Sir, its need of hour to amend the Section 30 of Protection of Human Rights Act-1993 as mentioned above immediately to spread the fragrance of Human Rights and to protect the rights of derived and down trodden people in our Country to get relief for their rights if established with the strengthening of Human rights Courts by appointing special judges and Special Public Prosecutors.

An early and immediate action shall be much appreciated if Parliament study the need of hour of the amendment instead of your subordinate bureaucrats formally forwarding the grievances of citizens to unconcerned authorities just for eyewash. Even our several complaints submitted through the PMO portal WRITE TO PRIME MINISTER is no action might be thrown in dustbin.

WITH REGARDS

Your sincerely,

Shyam Prasad Mantri
